For the ENTERTAINMENT of the

CURIOUS,

Will be exhibited, at a convenient room in Mr. Backhouse's tavern, a course of experiments in that instructive and entertaining branch of natural philosophy, call'd ELECTRICITY, to be accompanied with lectures on the nature and properties of Electric Fire,

By WILLIAM JOHNSON.

THE course consists of two lectures:—In the first of which, all the properties of that wonderful element, as far as the latest discoveries have made us acquainted therewith, are demonstrated in a number of curious and entertaining experiments, many of which are entirely new. In the second lecture, this fire is shewn to be real lightning, and in that view consider'd (as it really is) as one of the most awful powers of nature. Most of the effects of lightning are imitated by the electric fire, such as, killing animals, melting metal, tearing and rending bodies thro' which it passes; together with many curious experiments, naturally resembling the various phænomena of thunder storms, accounting for their causes, and explaining their effects. A practical method of preserving ourselves and our houses from the destructive violence of lightning, will likewise be shewn, the efficacy of which will be demonstrated by such indubitable proofs, from experience, as have not yet been exhibited to the world. The endeavouring to guard against lightning, in the manner proposed, shewn not to be chargeable with presumption nor inconsistent with any of the principles of natural or revealed religion.

As the knowledge of nature tends to enlarge the human heart, and give us more noble and exalted ideas of the GOD OF NATURE, it is hoped that this course will prove, to many, an agreeable entertainment.

The days of exhibition will be on Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday next, and on the corresponding days in the two following weeks, to begin at half past three o'clock precisely, in the afternoon.

TICKETS to be had at Mr. Timothy's Printing office in Broad-Street, and at the bar of Mr. Backhouse's tavern, at Forty shillings currency for the whole course.

N B. No person to be admitted without a ticket, by paying at the door, as the inconveniency is great, and must be obvious to every one.

AS the subscriber intends to embark for England, in three weeks at farthest, all accompts due to him, then unsettled will be put into a lawyer's hands.

His remaining goods he continues to sell very cheap for cash, and any person inclineable to purchase the whole may have them as low as they can be imported.

January 11.

We hear advice has lately been received, of an intended viſit to their Majeſties, from ſome of the Royal Family of Pruſſia, early in the ſummer.

By the direction of the principal merchants of the city of Briſtol, Mr. Smeaton has lately ſurveyed the keys belonging to that port, and has laid before them a propoſal for laying the ſhips at the key of Briſtol conſtantly afloat, and for enlarging that part of the harbour by a new canal through Cannon's Marſh.

On Thurſday evening there was a Meeting of Mr. Kearſly's Creditors at the Sun Tavern, when they unanimouſly agreed to eſtabliſh him in his former houſe where Ludgate ſtood. Upon a cloſe examination of his accounts, it appeared to the entire ſatisfaction of every Gentleman preſent, that there was a full ſufficiency to pay all his debts, notwithſtanding the expence of the Commiſſion of Bankruptcy, and the great loſs ſuſtained by the public ſale of his effects. It is evident from theſe circumſtances, that the proſecutions for the original publication of the North Briton, No. 45, which induced him to quit the kingdom, have been the ſole cauſe of his preſent unhappy ſituation.

Laſt week it was made appear, before a certain reſpectable body, that no leſs than 1700 looms in the ſilk branch were then unemployed in Spital-fields, Bethnal green, &c. from which inſtance alone, it is evident, eight thouſand five hundred perſons are out of employ, computing only five to a loom with the draw-boy, which is much under the number, including Silk-throwſters, Winders, &c. &c.

February 16.

Yeſterday morning, Mr. John Williams, of Fleet-ſtreet, Bookſeller, was carried in a coach to New Palace Yard, and pilloried purſuant to his ſentence, for re-publiſhing the 45th number of the North Briton: But as the affair turned out, he ſeemed rather to enjoy a triumph than undergo a puniſhment. The concourſe was incredible; 'tis computed there were no leſs than ten thouſand ſpectators, and every corner of the place was a continued round of acclamation and applauſe: Scarcely an individual but what ſeemed materially intereſted in Mr. Williams's favour; and the ſpace round the pillory was inceſſantly crouded with gentlemen, who expreſſed the ſtrongeſt approbation of his behaviour; ſhook him by the hand, and toaſted to his health. The delinquent all the time preſerved a countenance modeſt, tho' chearful; and ſpirited, tho' reſigned: He was dreſſed in a ſuit of claret-colour'd cloaths, over which he had a great coat; and kept a bunch of laurel in his hand, which was given him by ſome of the ſpectators. During the hour of exhibition, a ſort of ſtage was erected pretty cloſe to the pillory, on which ſomebody hung a Boot, a Scotch-bonnet and an axe; an invention that ſeemed not a little agreeable to the principal part of the multitude; and a little before Mr. Williams was taken down, the boot was ſet on fire; but not blazing with ſufficient expedition, the foot was cut off with the axe, and toſſed among the people. Juſt as the hour was expiring, a party of Mr. Williams's friends came with an arm-chair to carry him on their ſhoulders to the oppoſite tavern, (the King's-Arms) where he ſtopped in his way from the priſon, intending to pay him the ſame compliment which is generally ſhewn to a newly elected member of parliament; but this he politely declined; and walked acroſs the pavement amidſt the univerſal ſhout of the whole concourſe, who vied with each other in treating him with every mark of deference and reſpect. After refreſhing himſelf about half an hour at the King's-Arms, he ſet out in the Hackney-coach, No. 45. (which had brought him from the priſon, and was kept in waiting for that purpoſe) to ſuffer the remainder of his impriſonment: But not, however, before a gentleman remarkable for his public ſpirit, preſented him with a purſe containing near two hundred guineas, which he had kindly collected during the hour of elevation.

New Advertiſements.

THE members of the Friendly Society are deſired to meet at the houſe of Mr. Peter Horne, on Tueſday the 7th of May next, at five o'clock in the afternoon, being a quarterly meeting, when it is expected every member will attend and act agreeable to the rules of the ſaid ſociety.
